Fire scorches hills north of E. Park St., destroys home

by Philip A. Janquart

One house was lost early Monday morning in a blaze that began in the hills just north of E. Park St. near Weiser.

An off-duty firefighter and homeowner reported the fire at approximately 12 a.m. after witnessing a strange glow emanating from northwest of his house.

"I thought, 'That looks weird,' so I walked over and I saw flames, and it was, like, 'Oh, crap!' I didn't have my phone with me so I ran home and called it in," said Weiser Rural Fire Fighter Andrew Bedortha, who was at home with his family when the fire broke out.

Local fire crews along with crews from Midvale, Payette, New Plymouth, Sand Hollow and the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) responded to the fire that began spreading quickly near Loafer Lane to the east toward private homes and ranches, which were evacuated.

"We had brush engines from New Plymouth, Payette and Sand Hollow," said Weiser Rural Fire Chief Tim Atwood. "The Boise BLM crew here, called 'Wild West,' had three of their engines here and two of their supervisors. They baby-stepped this side of the fire for us all night."

The cause of the fire has not yet been determined, the State Fire Marshal spending most of the day on Monday investigating.

An unnamed elderly woman was evacuated from her house at 1496 E. Park St. before it was engulfed in flames. Small intermittent explosions could still be heard coming from the rubble throughout the morning.

It is not known whether investigators will be looking into their cause.

The area was roped off with caution tape for safety.

Annex Charter School holds STEAM Camp

by Philip A. Janquart

There are students who thrive in traditional classroom learning environments and others who are better at hands-on instruction.

Annex Charter School, in Annex, Ore., recently held a four-week summer STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math) Camp aimed at giving hands-on learners the opportunity to design, create and, in the end, further enrich their learning experiences.

The funds for the camp were provided through the federal government's CARES (Corona Aid, Relief, and Economic Security) Act signed as a $2.2 trillion economic stimulus package under President Donald Trump's administration.

The money was administered through an Oregon Department of Education grant. "We didn't want to do remedial, traditional kind of summer school," said summer program administrator Joe Burris. "We wanted to do something that was really more of a hands-on, project-oriented form of summer camp."

Participants were students in kindergarten through eighth grade.

The camp, which was held 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. four days per week, over four weeks in June, featured three projects per day, using the skills required to design and build

Weiser Valley Round-up kicks off Thursday

by Philip A. Janquart

The annual Weiser Valley Round-Up is scheduled for July 8-10, with pre-rodeo beginning at 7 p.m. and Grand Entry for the main rodeo at 8 p.m.

As always, the rodeo is taking place at the Fred Hust Arena, located on W. 9th St. between Galloway Ave. and Pioneer Road.

Cost is $10 for general admission and $5 for kids under 12. There will be food and beer concessions, with vendors selling rodeo-related items near the grandstands.

On tap are all of the Idaho Cowboy Association-sanctioned events, including bareback, saddle bronc, stock ranch bronc, and bull riding, as well as novice events in most of the same categories.

Timed events include tie-down roping (calf roping), ladys' breakaway roping, team roping and steer wrestling.

Event co-organizer Joe Qualls said the ladys' breakaway roping is fast and furious.

"It's a cool event, and it happens really quick," Qualls said.

There will also be two different age groups for kids' events, which include barrel racing, mutton-busting and junior bulls.

"This event is for kids up to 15-years-old and they ride these younger bulls that don't necessarily buck as hard as the big ones," Qualls explained. "But it's a training ground for these kids. This year, we have 17 kids who will ride those bulls each night on Friday and Saturday."

There will be a rodeo clown for crowd entertainment, as well as the usual group of bullfighters and pick-up men, Qualls added.

A crowd favorite, wild cow milking, is also scheduled. It is a timed event that pits six, three-man teams against each other in a mission to extract milk from one of several loose-running cows in the quickest time.

"There are three-man teams and we put six teams in the arena, with seven cows, all at the same time; one guy is on horseback, two others are on foot," Qualls explained. "We say go, and it's a free-for-all. The two guys on the ground have to stay in a box until their roper, ropes the cow and then the two of them come out and one tries to grab the head, and the other tries to get the tail. They stop her, and then

see ROUNDUP, Page 8

Bo Biggers, a 13-year-old cowboy from Sweet gets a pretty good ride going during the junior bull riding. The bullfighter gets out of the way as the bull heads across the arena. The bull was too tough this time around and Biggers didn't get a qualifying ride on the last night of the Weiser Valley Round-Up at Fred Hust Arena. Tim Eiguren sponsored the buckle for the junior bull riding winner. The bulls were provided by Rodeo Fever.

Obituaries

George Richard Moss

George Richard Moss, 94, of Weiser, Idaho, passed away as the sun rose on June 22, 2021 in the peace and comfort of his home.

"Dick," as friends and family lovingly knew him, was born June 18, 1927, to Staten and Anna Moss in Payette, Idaho.

His father was a cowboy and was happy so long as he had a horse and a dog. And he always had a horse and a dog.

On the other hand, his mother didn't appreciate the ranch life and convinced Staten to move the family into town.

Dick took after his father and preferred the ranch life working as a cowboy when he wasn't in school or fulfilling his duties as senior class president.

After high school, he joined the Navy, where he served for the duration of World War II.

Upon returning from the war, he met the love of his life, Lillian Faye Mahan. Their first date was on August 3, 1946, and they were married on Sept. 27 of that same year.

The couple went on to have three kids, Richard, Cheryl, and Greg.

Dick retired in 1982 after 33 years with Mountain Bell (U.S. West) phone company. During his retirement, he served as a deacon in the Church of the Redeemer in Weiser. He clocked over 10,000 hours as a volunteer at Park Intermediate School, receiving multiple accolades to include The Idaho Statesman's Citizen of the Month for March 1999. Never one to seek the spotlight, his true reward was helping others.

As a volunteer, his job description included grading papers and helping the children with everything from band-aids to sticky coat zippers. Even up until his death, Dick Moss would contribute $100 a month for lunch money for children who might otherwise go without.

He epitomized grace and service with charm, humor, and a whole lotta kindness and will be deeply missed. This is especially true for his neighbors and family.

Dick was predeceased by his wife Lillian Moss and son Gregory Moss.

He is survived by his son Richard Moss, his daughter Cheryl Smith, his sister Shirley Moss. Dick is also survived by seven grandchildren; Lance Smith, Shane Smith, Chad Moss, Courtney Newton, Devin Moss, Brandon Moss, and Matthew Moss.

A celebration of life was held for immediate family and friends on Saturday, July 3.

In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation to your favorite charity organization in Dick's name.

Enjoy a delicious meal at Smokin' Franny's BBQ

by Nicole Miller

Owners of Smokin' Franny's BBQ, Regan and Franny Pack, have recently expanded their food truck business to their new location at the Wolverine Market, located at 22 E. Commercial St. in Weiser.

The Packs have been in the food service industry for over 15 years. Prior to owning Smokin' Franny's, the couple had owned and operated several Mexican food franchise stores around the valley.

They decided to open a food truck when they found a location in Ontario, but there was already a Mexican food truck at that location, not to mention the variety of Mexican food restaurants available throughout the city.

They began brainstorming, researching other foods they could cook well that would offer variety to the local customers and quickly settled on BBQ.

Smokin' Franny's menu offers smoked sandwiches, ribs, chicken wings, and chicken strips, each with your choice of seven signature sauces, including Original BBQ, Honey BBQ, Hickory, Honey Mustard BBQ, Mango Habenero, Garlic Parmesan, and Buffalo.

Each of the flavors is a house secret recipe created by Franny herself.

Along with their smokin' meats, Franny's offers five regular side choices, including coleslaw, potato salad, macaroni salad, smoked baked beans, and french fries.

Some specialty premium sides include jalapeno poppers, tater gems with cheese and jalapeno, deep fried pickle spears, deep fried cheese curds, and breaded onion strips.

The Weiser location is a creative revamp of a 100-year-old location. The building lost its roof during the winter of 2017, so the Packs have remodeled the space as an open air food court, using awnings, umbrellas, and the neighboring building sides to create all day shade, creating a patio seating atmosphere.

The Packs said they immediately fell in love with the location, but it needed a lot of work. It was ugly, but they knew they could make what was there work for something instead of just letting it sit empty. They even hope to host other food trucks from time to time and hold live music events down the road.

The most important thing about their business is seeing the consumer enjoy their food, the couple striving for consistency and quality. When they have people from the south and Kansas praise their food as some of the best BBQ they have had, it's really satisfying, they said.

Their favorite combination? "For Regan," a pulled pork sandwich with garlic parmesan sauce and garnished with pickles, onion, and coleslaw. Regan said the mix of flavors is a taste explosion. Franny has the same favorite, but with the addition of mango habanero sauce.

"For sides, I love the macaroni salad," Regan said. "I can't get enough of it."

The Packs plan to keep Smokin' Franny's open as much as they can. It will depend, however, on their success in finding good workers, so they encourage anyone looking for a job to come visit them.

To start, they will be open Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., and hope to add Sundays soon if they are able to get someone to work the shift.

Anita's G.R.A.B. store owner celebrates 85th birthday

by Philip A. Janquart

Anita Ward, owner of Anita's G.R.A.B. Store, located at 24 W. Idaho St. in Weiser, recently celebrated her 85th birthday with friends and fellow business owners.

Anita, who graduated from Weiser High School in 1954, has owned her own business for 25 years and is still going strong.

"I graduated and followed my husband, Noah, in the Air Force for 20 years," she told the Weiser Signal American. "We landed back here in about 1977."

Anita served as an assistant activities director at a local nursing home for the next 18 years before realizing her dream of becoming a business owner.

"I always knew I wanted to have my own business," she said. "I just knew it was going to happen."

The store has occupied several buildings in Weiser's downtown area over the years, but she has been at her current location for approximately nine years.

"It's gone very well," she added. "I've got a wonderful landlord, Larry Lee. He couldn't be better."

The shop has a wide variety of antiques, collectibles and other items she finds on her own and that are donated.

"It's not necessarily antiques," she explained. "I just like shopping. One of my loves is stopping for any garage sale I see. I get lots of donations, too. I have a garage full of stuff and two storage sheds that I can't get in here."

Weiser Mayor Randy Hibberd, former Weiser High classmate Ralph Bain, along with Bonnie Akbar of Artful Bons and JudyAnn Scott of JudyAnn's Quilting were on hand to cut cake and share some time with the long-time business owner.

"When you get up every day and go to work as a business owner, and you have a reason to keep going every day, I really admire that," said Linda Roundtree of Station 30 in Weiser. "You have to have a reason to get up every day. She is a great lady and I give her credit. She gets up everyday and goes full-speed ahead."

Weiser Farmers Market opens July 15

by Philip A. Janquart

The Weiser Farmers Market is set to open this year on July 15 and will run through Sept. 9, from 5-7:30 p.m. on Thursdays at the historic Weiser Train Depot off Commercial St.

Originally established in 2012 by the Weiser River Resource Council, the market will feature 23 vendors for its 2021 season.

"People get behind it and it keeps getting better and better," said market organizer Jim Felton. "We've run out of room. We are about as full as we are going to get this year."

There will be fruits, vegetables, baked goods and other perishables that are home grown and handmade.

The Market is approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to accept SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) cards (formerly known as food stamps) to help low-income families have access to the freshest and nutritious produce available in Washington County, according to Felton.

As a member of the Idaho Farmers Market Association, the Weiser Farmers Market is once again able to offer the Double Up Bucks program for use with SNAP cards. The program doubles, up to ten dollars, each week, the buying power of the SNAP cards for the purchase of healthy fruit and produce.

"People with SNAP cards can come directly to our booth and they get tokens," Felton explained. "They'll slide their card, it goes directly off of their card, into our account and we give them dollar tokens, which they use to buy any of the food products. They also did a Double Up Bucks program last year, and they'll be doing that again this year."

The Double Up Bucks program is made possible through a grant from the Idaho Farmer's Market Association under the USDA. "It's to get people to come in and get healthy food as opposed to other options," Felton said.

Felton said he expects sizeable crowds as long as the heat doesn't get too much worse.

"People are wanting to get out, so it should be good," he said.

Here is a list of this year's vendors:

Sterling Shaved Ice, Sterling Blackwell; James and Christen Jensen, live plants; Chelsea Post, baked goods, crafts; Claudia Erickson, baked goods, crafts; Art of Jams, Wendy Martell, jam's and jellies; Matthews Family Farms, Patti Matthews, honey, lamb, bee balm;

FROM THE MAYOR'S DESK

Weiser celebrated the Fourth of July with parade, music and fireworks

It is HOT. I do not ever remember having this long of a hot spell this early in the summer. I hope everyone is taking precautions to stay cool as much as possible and to stay hydrated.

What a great Fourth of July celebration this past weekend. It started off with the Veterans Parade Saturday morning honoring all of Weiser's veterans for their years of service to this great country. Joe Malay emceed the event with Grace Young doing a marvelous job singing the national anthem and Lyndon Haines giving a great speech. Thank you, Alex Chavarria for organizing this event. Most of all, Thank YOU to all of the veterans who have allowed this country to remain free!

Immediately following the parade, the Picker's Paradise owners, Joe and Narie Young, organized a free "Rock the Park" event in the City Park. I guess you could call it a Weiser version of Woodstock. The music was great. There was a variety of food and other vendors for everyone to enjoy. There was even a fire hydrant "sprinkler" set up in the street for kids to play in the water.

I was amazed at how well all age groups were represented. It was truly a wonderful community event. Thank you, Joe and Narie, for the idea as well as the time and effort involved in putting this together! I hope this is a new annual tradition for Weiser.

Then on Sunday night, our Weiser City Fire Department put on its annual fireworks display. The fireworks were great! Cathy and I had a chance to look over "command central" for the display prior to the show. It was interesting seeing the intricate control board, wiring, tubes and everything needed to pull off the beautiful and safe event for our community. Thank you to the Weiser City Fire Department for all of your time and effort to put on the celebration!

The fireworks were delayed at first due to a need by the fire department to respond to a small grass fire over near E. 12th Street. After the celebration, another small fire on the east side of the cemetery was quickly put out by the fire department. (Although the cemetery fire appeared to be started by the City's fireworks, further investigation showed that it was not.)

A third, much more serious fire on Weiser River Road then claimed a house, barn, and shed, east of Appleton Produce. It also threatened other homes on Chicken Hill with multiple households evacuated safely.

All of these fires were the result of fireworks.

The Weiser City Code does not allow for firing off "Dangerous Fireworks," as defined in the Code, without a permit from the City Council. From the top of Indianhead Road, where Cathy and I watched the City's well-controlled display, it was easy to spot illegal fireworks going off all over Weiser.

I will be working with the City Council and our Police Department over the next year to ensure that there is not a repeat of the hazards we faced this year due to the dangerous fireworks displays in town in crowded neighborhoods. There will be more on this topic later.

Well, that's it for this week. Hope you stay cool out there!

Mayor Randy Hibberd

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Vote of no confidence

Dear Editor,

In March of this year, the Washington County Planning and Zoning commissioners held a public hearing on an application by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lancaster for a rezone of their property on Gentry Lane from A-1 to A-2 for six 20-acre parcels because the County Planning and Zoning administrator told them that's what they had to do.

The only two speakers in favor of the rezone were Jeri Soulier, a realtor for 30 years and former Planning and Zoning commissioner for over a decade, and former Planning and Zoning administrator Chad Brock.

There were 11 people representing the Gentry Lane property owners who spoke against the rezone. The concerns of those opposed were not considered and, after limited discussion, the P&Z commissioners unanimously voted to approve the application for rezone.

Because the issues brought forward by those opposed to the rezone were not addressed, the county commissioners asked the P&Z commissioners to hold another hearing to address those issues, and the second public hearing was held in May of this year.

At this hearing, the Gentry Lane property owners believed it was necessary to have an attorney speak on their behalf in an effort to protect and defend their property rights and educate the Planning and Zoning commission and the county attorney.

Also at this hearing, former and newly appointed P&Z Commissioner Jeri Soulier brought in a water locator expert, Mr. Lolley, to speak on behalf of the Lancasters, and she announced that she had done some research and investigation on her own, and she informed the other P&Z commissioners of her findings.

The result of this second hearing was that, by unanimous vote of the P&Z commissioners, the application for rezone was approved for the second time. No one, including Washington County Attorney Delton Walker, seemed to be concerned that it was a conflict of interest for Ms. Soulier to have been an advocate for the Lancasters in both public hearings, she was in favor of the rezone, she had done her own research on the matter, she was obviously biased, and she was now voting on the matter.

As a newly appointed P&Z commissioner, she should have recused herself. It was obviously a conflict of interest. The county attorney was there and was aware that this was a conflict of interest. He didn't point it out, as he should have, and as he has done with multiple other people.

As a side note, the second public hearing was not recorded and the minutes of the public hearing do not show that Jeri Soulier spoke at all, nor do the minutes reflect that Ron Jaeger spoke at all, which he did. Mr. Jaeger is now a P&Z commissioner who had recently been appointed for the second time.

Between the time of the second P&Z hearing and when the county commissioners were to make the final decision on the rezone, and amid rumors of an imminent lawsuit against Washington County on the inconsistencies of the application of the County Code, County Attorney Delton Walker decided to enlist legal advice on the matter from outside counsel, a land attorney in Boise.

On Monday, June 21, at the Board of County Commissioners hearing, on a motion made by Commissioner Chandler and seconded by Commissioner Haines, and by unanimous vote, the county commissioners denied the application for rezone because it was not necessary for the Lancasters to apply for a rezone in the first place since the County Code allows for a building permit on 20 acres or more that is zoned A-1.

The Lancasters should never have had to go through this entire process. The Gentry Lane property owners should never have had to go through this entire process, let alone having to bear the cost of hiring an attorney. If the Code had just been followed in the beginning, all of this could have been avoided.

When you have nine P&Z Commissioners who do not know the Code, one of whom was a past P&Z Commissioner and is newly appointed to serve again, and another P&Z Commissioner who has had 30 years of experience in real estate and over a decade as a P&Z Commissioner in the past and is newly appointed to serve again, when you have the County Attorney not knowing the Code and having to enlist legal advice from outside counsel, and when two of the three County Commissioners do

Your Faith

The melting pot effect

Church of the Redeemer

Moving throughout your formative years from New York to Louisiana to Minnesota to Ohio to..., your accent becomes a unique blend of all the regional accents of your sojourning. It is the external evidence of the melting pot effect that has deepened and broadened your internal identity with bits and pieces of yourself picked up from people and places along the way.

Anytown, USA likely offers a wide sampling of churches representing a diversity of faith communities. Upon visiting, there may not be the opened arm welcome hoped for, especially if the visitor hails from other parts, dresses differently, speaks differently, believes differently.

As recent experience has poignantly reminded, this is not only true within our churches but society in general. There seems to be a pervasive focus on picking apart differences instead of celebrating together shared commonalities making it near impossible to lose the distinct edginess of exclusivity that has built impenetrable fortresses around society's factions, causes and movements.

Scripture teaches that our God loves without partiality; we love because He first loved us; love is the perfect bond of unity; we are to love the Lord our God with all our heart, soul, mind and strength and our neighbor as ourselves. By parable, shows who our neighbor is.

After going to the Cross, rising in victory over death, and gaining all authority in Heaven and on earth, Jesus left His faithful with this Great Commission, "Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age" - Matthew 28:19-20 (NASB).

A call for the melting pot effect to have its way in and through us causing us to pick up bits and pieces of ourselves from all our neighbors, around the corner or around the globe, taking the edge off our differences to blend us into one family.

Outed as different, we can boldly proclaim, "I am a child of the living God!" Then extend the invitation to jump into the pot - Jody R. Goode, redemertweiser@gmail.com.

Matthew 22:36-39 (NASB) - ... "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind." ... "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

Taking charge

St. Luke's Episcopal by Carolyn Wesner

Jesus had family troubles; don't we all, from time to time?

Some generations grow up in cultures which don't allow for family troubles at all: nothing wrong with us, everything is fine, big smiles all around, we are a happy family.

It's okay to be suspicious of those claims - nobody is that good.

These days, we have such things as family counselors, self-help groups, AA, doctors and medications if need be, to help us through our troubles. This was not always so; it used to be the family who had to get hold of the person and "fix things."

When Jesus was 30, he came out as Christ, the Messiah, the Son of God. This was welcome news to some, but not to others, particularly in his home region. "Who does this guy think he is?" was the question on everybody's minds. "We know his mom, his brothers and sisters, yet he says he is straight from God - he's nuts" they were thinking.

Jesus was getting a huge following: big crowds, lots of sick people healed in body and mind. It was getting out of control. So....

In comes the family to take charge of Jesus and put a stop to the so-called madness. The lawyers came too, making arguments of logic and philosophy about the state of Jesus' mind. Whatever psychiatric doctors there were back then came and diagnosed him as "possessed", a common way in those days to explain the unexplainable.

"Somebody needs to start a Conservatorship for this poor deluded man"; get the family involved. So they came.

His mother and brothers arrived but couldn't get near Jesus, the crowds were so big. Someone sent in a message, "Your family is here to take you home" but Jesus didn't go out to them. He knew he was going about his heavenly Father's business!

Though he loved his family he pointed to those around him and said "Whoever does the will of God is my mother, my sister, my brother." Faithfulness to God comes first, always first as Jesus showed us.

All are welcome at St. Luke's Episcopal Church for 10 a.m. service, and please join us for the newly open coffee fellowship hour afterwards.

The most popular Jesus story

Riverside Baptist

There are many stories of Jesus. Perhaps the most popular story of Jesus is about the woman caught in adultery.

The story begins with an angry crowd dragging an adulterous woman before Jesus. The leaders demand Jesus to decide. Should the crowd stone her or not?

Jesus states that the person who is without sin should cast the first stone. Everyone leaves. Only Jesus remains. He tells her that he does not condemn her.

This story is one of the most retold stories throughout history. In fact, the story has been preserved through the oral tradition.

We can all relate to the spiritual pain of this woman. We may not be guilty of adultery but we have all sinned against someone else. We understand guilt and shame. Thankfully, we have a Savior.

Jesus is the only one without sin. He is the righteous judge. Instead of condemning, Jesus gives His life on the cross to pay the price for our sin. He gives forgiveness and a new changed life for all who believe.

"And as they continued to ask him, he stood up and said to them, 'Let him who is without sin among you be the first to throw a stone at her.' But when they heard it, they went away one by one, beginning with the older ones, and Jesus was left alone with the woman standing before him. Jesus stood up and said to her, 'Woman, where are they? Has no one condemned you?' She said, 'No one, Lord.' And Jesus said, 'Neither do I condemn you; go, and from now on sin no more.'" (John 8:7-11, ESV).

I invite you to join us this Sunday. All are welcome!

Epinephrine

Every so often I will get a patient that asks me to give them a shot without epinephrine because they believe they are allergic. Epinephrine, also known as adrenaline, is naturally produced in everyone's body and therefore no one is truly allergic to it. Many people confuse an adverse reaction as an allergy. Some of the most common adverse reactions to epinephrine are: increased heart rate and force of contraction, dizziness, sweating, nervousness and headaches.

Epinephrine plays an important role in the "Fight or Flight" response in our bodies. A few of the important functions of epinephrine are: increasing the heart rate, increasing respiratory rate and increasing the amount of glucose/sugar that is available for the muscles. For these reasons epinephrine can be used to save someone who is having an allergic reaction. Most healthcare providers have a dose of epinephrine at their office for such an emergency.

The main reason epinephrine is in many of our dental anesthetics is to help our patients become profoundly numb and stay numb. Epinephrine contracts the blood vessels near the site of injection which allows the anesthetic to stay in place and work for an extended period of time. There are anesthetics available without epinephrine, but they do not last as long and you may need more than one shot to complete the procedure.

If you have a topic for an article send us an email at dilledental@gmail.com, or better yet, stop in at our office. We love to talk about teeth and we will be happy to answer your question(s) in future columns.

Local titleholders compete in the Miss Idaho pageant

by Nicole Miller

Weiser natives, Sarah Jensen and Marissa Goodwin, along with current Miss Western Idaho, Kyra Bake, recently competed at the Miss Idaho competition.

Each of the girls represented the area well, and earned scholarships.

Bake promoted her social impact initiative "Generation Connection," a cause she became passionate about through volunteering with hospice patients. For her talent, she performed a dance she choreographed herself.

She earned the "Idaho Bert Park award," which is given to the candidate who best represents the spirit of the Miss Idaho Organization and what it stands for. Bake was particularly honored to receive the award because it is voted on by the candidates themselves, she said.

Jensen, a math teacher, competed as Miss Treasure Valley, choosing her social impact initiative "math matters." As a teacher, she sees firsthand how important it is to show youth the ways in which they use math in their everyday lives. Jensen played a piano solo for her talent, winning the preliminary talent award and the preliminary onstage question award. She also finished in the top six.

"I had a really great experience at Miss Idaho 2021," she beamed. "I gave it everything that I had and I have no regrets. I am so lucky to have received $1,500 in scholarships."

Goodwin, who competed as Miss Meridian, promoted her long time social impact initiative, the "Wounded Warrior project," and performed a Cozaar vocal solo for the talent competition. She earned $1,350 as a second runner-up and $250 for winning the community promotion award.

"I always enjoy spending Miss Idaho week with my sister queens," she said. "This year was extra special because after years of competing in opposite years Sarah Jensen and I finally got to compete together and were blessed to be roommates!"

All three girls expressed gratitude for their amazing support system in the local communities. Victoria Thomas selflessly drove down an entire day early to be her talent rehearsal representative, Goodwin said.

"I know my vocal abilities (and confidence) would be nowhere near where they are without her," Goodwin said.

The three competitors also expressed gratitude for how beneficial the Miss America Organization has been to their educational goals.

Weiser's own Grace Zimmerman crowned the new Miss Idaho, Ayriss Torres. Zimmerman held the title for the last two years due to COVID. Zimmerman shared that saying goodbye to the title was bittersweet, and that she is grateful for the opportunities she received while serving Idaho in this position.

"Overall the competition was really fierce. I could tell that the ladies had used their extra time to study hard, refine their talents, and perfect their public speaking," Zimmerman said. "I really had no clue who would win because they were all so strong. I'm really proud of my Weiser/Western Idaho girls for representing our community with such elegance and kindness."

In addition to Miss Idaho, a new Miss Idaho's Outstanding Teen was also crowned.

Although she did not win any scholarships, Weiser's Elsie King competed very well, earning the title.

The Miss Western Idaho competition, which crowns Miss Western Idaho, Miss Three Rivers, Miss Western Idaho's Outstanding Teen and Miss Three River's Outstanding teen, is typically held each year in July.

The competition was canceled last year, and due to several factors, the pageant committee made the difficult decision to delay this year's competition for a later date.

The board wanted to assure the community that the competition will return, and that they look forward to selecting the next group of young women who will represent the local communities at next year's Miss Idaho competition.

They will let the communities know as soon as possible when they have chosen the new date for the competition.

Quick response by local fire crews and mutual aid helped save homes thwarted what could have been a more expansive and serious fire that had the potential of taking more homes and property.

“This was bad enough, but it could have been even worse,” said Atwood. “It’s hard to lose a house. We had to evacuate ranch houses (along E. Park St., going east). I really thought it would end up over there. The wind went down just long enough for us to get a line and stop it. It all came together.”

Heavy equipment from the Sand Hollow Fire Department was instrumental in stopping the spread of the flames, a bulldozer cutting an eight-foot wide fire line down a steep grade on the hillside from north to south.

“Yeah, that was kind of impressive,” Atwood said. “Dozer operators have to be a little bit ... crazy, but a lot of times, if it’s big, it’s the fastest way to get a line around a fire.”

Crews began building the line by hand before the dozer arrived on scene, according to Bedortha who said his first plan of action, after calling in the fire, was to evacuate his family.

“I was scared,” he said. “We are adopting a four-month-old kid, and we have five dogs, pigs and a steer, but we got everyone out. The fire came right up to my property line.”

Some areas at the base of the hills are covered with perennial rye grass that Atwood said burns up quick.

Though the cause of the fire has yet to be established, the prevailing suspicion is that fireworks are to blame.

“The fireworks show was delayed last night because Weiser City got a call for a fire started by fireworks,” said Atwood, when asked about calls stemming from fireworks over the weekend. “And, there was another one right after the show. Well, we got one Thursday night, too.”

Atwood said people should exercise extreme caution when using fireworks, citing a case on Friday that could have made another bad situation worse.

“We had a microburst and the roof of a house came up, and smacked the open [power] line and people were shooting off fireworks,” he said. “Deputies are there, the fire chief is there, and all kinds of people are shooting off fireworks. Crazy. The line was laying right over their car and they didn’t care because they were having a good time.”

A microburst is a common weather event similar to a mini-tornado and can have small, concentrated bursts of winds of up to 100 mph, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

STEAM Camp attendees learned how to design and build projects in each of the STEAM disciplines.

“Everything has been based around the design process, trying to get them thinking about problem solving,” said Burris, whose background is in educational technology. “A lot of times, during the school year, we are kind of tied to the curriculum and this gives us the chance to be a little more hands-on and project based.”

“Some of our less traditional learners, I think, benefitted from finding success in building some stuff that they ordinarily wouldn’t get a chance to build, and some of our students who are more traditionally successful also benefitted by getting to do some more hands-on things, putting the academics into some practical applications.”

One mother said her sons took to the camp more than she had anticipated.

“They really got into it and didn’t want to do anything else,” said Cheyanne Strange. “They really enjoyed it. It really kept their minds stimulated. They would come home and start building stuff, and really got their imaginations going.”

Part of the curriculum for the summer camp included a Star Lab.

Funded by Malheur County’s Education Service District (ESD), the lab mimicked a planetarium, which depicts constellations in the night sky.

The ESD is an important source for Annex Charter School, which relies on the District to fund a variety of services, including special education, counseling, speech therapy and others.

The organization, which helps assist small schools stretch their budgets, provided funds for the school’s 3-D printers and computers, which participants used as part of the camp’s program.

“Joe and I have worked together before and have been both very interested in technology, but this was a new adventure for us and it worked out really well,” said Annex Charter School Principal and Superintendent Steve Bishop. “Kids love it. We can integrate all the subjects, but the kids are doing hands-on stuff every day, which is really good for a lot of the kids, especially in light of last year where it was so disjointed. We want to keep doing this and we will find the money for it because it’s been so valuable and the kids responded so well.”

Hunter Trammel, 11, watches with amazement as a 3-D printer forms a shape he designed on a special computer during the Annex Charter School’s summer educational camp held in June. The camp, the school’s first, was a great success, with about 30 kids, or half of the school student body, participating. Photo Philip A. Janquart

“They help us with ticket sales and we, in exchange, try to help them make a little money,” Qualls said, who is a past member of the Network’s board.

“Raffle tickets will be on sale all three nights to raise money for medical expenses and treatment costs for Dani, a local girl who has cancer.”

Qualls said the Round-Up would not happen without all of the generous, local sponsor support.

“Without all the financial help of all these sponsors, without that, we don’t have a rodeo,” he said. “You just can’t overstate the community support we have.”

Judy's Weiser In brings happiness to community

by Philip A. Janquart

After a long 18-month shutdown, Judy's restaurant, which had become a staple eatery in Weiser, has recently re-opened its doors.

Judy Sterling and husband, Dennis, owned the restaurant for 24 years before deciding to go in a different direction, focusing their efforts on catering and specialty parties, which she held at the restaurant.

"I actually changed the way I was doing things after Christmas of 2019," she said. "I went to catering and specialty parties."

Judy catered large events, to the tune of 100 to 200 people, and was enjoying great success when the pandemic hit in March 2020, halting just about everything in its tracks, including her business.

"We were doing well with that," she said. "We had things scheduled out, and we had a party on March 6 (2020) and by the 15th, everything had shut down. Nobody knew if it was going to last a month or a year. There was a lull, and we did one more party, but after that, things got bad again until people got vaccinated."

Judy did a lot of thinking during her time off.

Once the vaccinations had been available to the public for a time, she decided to re-open the restaurant, the doors opening about two weeks ago.

"The building just looked sad and my name wasn't out there anymore," she recalls. "So, I thought, 'We'll just open with the grandkids.' Their mothers thought it would be a good idea to put them all to work, and it was a good idea. It's working out really well."

Judy currently has eight of her grandkids working for her. Only her chef, Jason Catrina, is not related. Otherwise, the rest of the staff is all family. Catrina, a trained chef, worked at the Hideaway Grill in Payette before returning to Judy's Weiser In.

"We really appreciated him coming back," Judy said. "We couldn't have done it without him."

Business is hopping and the restaurant will stay open indefinitely.

"We had a fabulous response when we opened back up," Judy said. "They hugged me at the door; they said, 'We're so happy you're open, we're so happy you are all vaccinated!' They said that they missed me, the kids, the family, and the feeling in here of happiness – it's happiness when you are here."

Judy hasn't exactly put her catering business aside, but most her time is dedicated to the restaurant, working long days and visiting with patrons she hasn't seen since closing 18 months ago.

"We go through about 16 gallons of soup a day," she said.

The menu hasn't changed much, Judy's Weiser In serving local favorites and offering daily specials.

The restaurant, a true "Mom and Pop" venture, serves a range of chicken sandwiches; turkey, roast beef, ham and cheese, B.L.T., and grilled cheese sandwiches; soup, salads, and lunch baskets; and a dinner menu featuring steaks, pasta, and more.

Initially, Sterling was going to have the restaurant open three days per week, but the demand was greater than she had anticipated, leading to a full work week. The restaurant is now open Monday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Friday, 11 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Judy left her home in Lodi, Calif. when she was 23, moving to Garden Valley where she lived for about 10 years before moving to Weiser in 1996.

"I moved here with my family because I thought it would be a nice place to raise my kids, and it really has been," she said.

Judy's grandchildren will eventually be heading back to school.

"They'll be leaving, so we are looking to hire new employees," she said.

Those interested in working at Judy's Weiser In can call the restaurant at (208) 414-4962.

Kick Up Kids Cloggers perform at Weiser River Music Festival

by Nicole Miller

Mary Ann Walker, long time director of Kick Up Kids, has taught over 4,000 students in her long career, but has decided after 35 years to hang up her clogging shoes and officially retire.

Walker first saw clogging at an onion convention in McCall in 1984, and thought it would be fun to see it at the Fiddle Festival.

After the performance, she talked with the director who showed Walker a few basic clogging steps and gave her the name of a man that taught the dance art in Utah.

The next day, Walker called the man. He put her in contact with the Brigham Young University folk dancers, who were at the end of the summer hosting their first clogging workshop.

She signed up for "Clogging Camp" that same day.

At the time, Walker was very involved with choreographing all the routines for the "Miss Washington County" pageants.

"Terri Campbell asked me to help her with a dance," she said.

Walker told Campbell about her plan to learn clogging. "She was very interested and asked Walker if she could find someone to teach it to her so she could dance at the pageant."

Walker found a couple in Kuna that taught the dance skill and they gave her three private lessons (at $100 a lesson!) and she came back and taught it to Terri.

It worked out perfectly because Campbell won the talent portion of the contest. After that, Walker went to camp, came home and opened her studio two weeks later.

It was an immediate hit.

"The first time I opened my doors, I had over 175 students," Walker said.

Class enrollment has decreased over the years, but she has consistently maintained between 60 to 75 students. She has also taught classes in Cambridge, New Plymouth, and now McCall.

Throughout some years, Walker took groups to competitions, but she never really liked them because she liked to let everyone clog, no matter their ability or how serious they are.

When Weiser teams would go to competitions, the opposing teams were all hand-selected with students that were exclusively cloggers.

Walker decided at that time to travel the country, going to different workshops and has been doing so for the last 14 years.

Walker's teams have been all around the U.S., Canada, and Mexico for workshops, one even on a cruise ship.

A few years ago, she moved to McCall and has kept Hwy.

95 pretty busy, driving back and forth once a week to teach two days a week in Weiser. She didn't mind the commute. Winter was a bit dicy from time to time, but she made it work.

"I just relate better to kids, probably because I'm still one myself!" she said.

Walker has decided that 35 years is a good number to end her journey. She is looking forward to her next phase in life and is currently working with two of her former students who are looking into continuing the clogging classes here in Weiser.

Mary Ann is looking forward to advising them on their journey and seeing her legacy continue through them.

Challenging the skills of bikers

Pictured above, two contestants attempt to guide empty beer kegs down a specified course during the 2021 Bikers Rodeo sponsored by Ole's Tavern and the Copper Lounge. Large crowds gathered to watch the event despite the unprecedented heat. Proceeds from the event benefitted the Weiser City Fire Department, according to event organizer Greg Coleman, of Ole's Tavern. 'Nobody got in trouble and nobody got hurt,' Coleman said. 'Overall, everything was on the up-and-up, and it went very well.'

Pictured to the left, bikers line up for the 'slow' event, which challenges riders to go as slow as possible. Unlike most races, the winner of the slow event was the rider who rode across the finish line last.

not know the code, it is a disservice to the Lancaster and a greater disservice to the other property owners on Gentry Lane.

The only county commissioner who has known all along what the code allows is Commissioner Kirk Chandler. Commissioner Chandler has been trying to explain for at least three years and probably closer to five years what the code allows, and he has been challenged and ignored, not to mention maligned. He has been working tirelessly to rewrite sections of the county code so that they conform to state code and he has been trying to eliminate ambiguity and differing interpretations of certain codes. He has been met with resistance by Commissioner Marvin and Commissioner Haines and County Attorney Delton Walker; and the Planning and Zoning commission has been unwilling to either follow Commission Chandler's suggested changes to the code or, in the alternative, come up with their own language to fix the codes.

Commissioner Haines said that fixing 39 pages of code changes was too big for the P&Z commissioners to tackle and that is the reason they had not made any changes. That comment by Commissioner Haines was insulting and uncalled for. P&Z commissioners are responsible for knowing and understanding well over 100 pages of the county code regarding zoning, so 39 pages surely would not be too big to tackle.

P&Z commissioners have, in the past, made necessary changes to the code either on their own or those changes suggested by county commissioners. For whatever reasons, it is clear that the current P&Z commissioners have been unwilling to cooperate with Commissioner Chanandler. Perhaps they were told by past and current P&Z administrators that Commissioner Chandler doesn't know what he's talking about or perhaps they have been advised by the county attorney that they don't have to make the changes proposed by Commissioner Chandler. It is important to note here that the supervisor of the County Planning and Zoning commission is the Board of County Commissioners and that the P&Z commissioners are appointed by the county commissioners.

The bottom line is that the County is digging itself into a deeper and deeper hole and no one seems to have sense enough to put down the shovels.

Now the county will have the fallout from this debacle to contend with, such as the many landowners who previously applied for building permits on 20 acres and were told by then Planning and Zoning Administrator Chad Brock that they could not get a building permit.

If every one of the Planning and Zoning commissioners was wrong on the Lancaster matter, then they should be replaced, or, in the alternative, the Planning and Zoning commission should be done away with or all of the P&Z Commissioners need to be "educated/trained."

If the County Attorney Delton Walker was wrong in his interpretation of the Code and had to get outside counsel to explain it to him, then he should be replaced. The legal phrase, "ineffective assistance of counsel" applies here.

If Commissioner Marvin and Commissioner Haines were both wrong in their interpretation of the code, in spite of Commissioner Chandler's repeated attempts to educate them on it, then they should be replaced.

Commissioner Marvin, Commissioner Haines, County Attorney Delton Walker and the entire Planning and Zoning Commission all have my vote of no confidence!

Never vote for incumbent legislators

Dear Editor,

"We hold these truths to be self-evident," you know the rest of the spiel, and that it came from our Declaration of Independence, as did this: that to secure these GOD-given rights, governments are instituted among men deriving their power from the governed.

That is, you and me, We The People (WTP) of this United States of America, the Sovereign Administrators and last best hope for the preservation of our beloved Republic.

WTP are Constitutionally authorized to replace every member of the House of Representatives and 1/3 of the Senators every second year. This is what WTP must do until our congress rights our ship of state; the required project is for congress to abolish the administrative state and thereafter adhere to our Constitution as written and amended.

However, WTP must maintain our affiliation in a political party to secure our right to vote effectively in the primary elections. Think! You can only vote concerning candidates listed in the party you declare yourself. The next primary elections, when it is easier to oust an incumbent, begin January 2022, less than 6 months hence.

All the above applies equally to your state government. Never vote for incumbent legislators.
